The DSpace Course

Module – Items in DSpace
By the end of this module you will:

- Understand what an item in DSpace is, and what it is made up of
- Know about bundles and bitstreams
- Know how the standard submission interface works
- Have submitted an item into a DSpace repository
What is an item?

- An item is made up of:
  - Metadata
  - Bundles (e.g. ORIGINAL / LICENCE / TEXT)
  - Bitstreams
The standard submission interface

- A typical submission:
  - Choose a collection to submit to
  - Answer some initial questions
  - Enter some metadata
  - Upload some files
  - Verify the submission
  - Agree to the deposit licence
Practical exercise: submit an item

- Submit an item to your repository
  - Enter a collection you have created
  - Perform a submission using a test item supplied to you
